Indian Inspects Torrance Schools, Compares Notes

Torrance school officials got a chance to find out about education in India Thursday, as Dr. N. P. Pillai, dean of education at the University of Kerala, India, toured local educational facilities.

The Indian visitor has visited schools throughout the United States in a study of the way that social studies is taught here.

In his native country, Dr. Pillai noted, the program is carried on somewhat differently. Because India is a poorer country, each person must produce as much as he can, Dr. Pillai noted. While children are spinning cloth, they also are learning about the geography of the country where cotton is grown, its history, and other factors which affect it.

India has made greater strides since it became independent to years ago than it did in the previous 100 years, he declared, but still needs many things. Education in India is based on the philosophy of Mahatma Gandhi, he said. Length of schooling is similar to that in the U.S. While in Torrance, Dr. Pillai was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eipper, 2346 W. 246th Pl., through arrangements of the Torrance Junior Woman's Club.
